MEMORANDUM

When I had breakfast with Kissinger on Tuesday, June 29th, we talked about how to handle Jordan. He said he was working on it. Talked about the Lebanon evacuation; talked about the situation in Italy, and Portugal; talked about the issue of the B-52's making some training flights up towards Korea; and Habib's problem. He said he would look into it.

I told him we still weren't getting any cables. He said that the Vice President was sour and was not helping the President as much as he should be.
