STASER:

When I talked to Paul Nitze the other day, he talked about the possibility of a major effort to build prototypes of launchers, shelters, transporters as part of the MX, not the missile. Let's get Wade in and talk about that. Nitze also encouraged me to see Johnny Vote and talk about the general purpose forces in Europe and the problem of weather and the need for an all weather capability. The fact that we might need an all weather rocket.
