Staser:
Alan

① Brent Scowcroft tells me that there is some exception to the normal relationship between Defense and the White House and it involves some technical panels that used to be part of the Science Advisory office and are now part of NSC and they don't require going through the normal channels. I don't like that, find out what it is and find out if there are any other exceptions and let's think about getting an amendment to the memo that has been sitting over in the White House for the last 2 months.

Furthermore, Staser, that technical panel in NSC apparently is working on an anti-satellite capability for the United States. Find out if they have been connected with DDR&E.
